Entrepreneur Tom ob Koh arrested in Solançe

MØG/SAMSARINI, 19-10-316 • Tak businessman Tom ob Koh was arrested in Samsarini, the capital of the southern Longerath nation Solançe, where he is currently on a business trip. After the local police established that he was not the man they were looking for, he was released.

'Apparently my name rings a set of alarm bells in this country', says the still shaken entrepreneur. 'Yesterday evening I received the news that my family bestowed upon me the right to call myself Tom ob Koh, so I presented myself to the hotel reception for the first time this morning, in order to make sure that no confusion would arise in case people send me messages. 15 minutes later the whole place was surrounded by the police!'

The Tak national is now unsure how to present himself in public. 'Until yesterday my name was nKoorg Tom, which didn't cause any reaction. But not being able to having me called me by my given name would be offensive to me and my family', he stated.

There is a certain nervousness among officials in the Burovian Realm, of which Solançe is part, because of the possibility that former dictator of Terramarc Tom Koh – whose name bears some resemblance to Tom ob Koh's name – is leading a terrorist organisation in Eras.

Kemedal recognises Tak's independence

MØG/ABERBAN, 18-10-316 • The Kingdom of Kemedal on the continent of Eras, has formally recognised the independence of the Free States of Tak, the first non-former Bowdani country to do so after Bowdani's break-up. Ambassadors will be exchanged as of December this year.

Government Burovian Realm destroyed

MØG, 25-10-316 • The government of Tak have replied with astonishment on the news that the government of the Greater Burovian Realm was destroyed in its entirety today by a nuclear explosion device. The prime minister expressed her deep condolences on behalf of all Tak to the many peoples that are affected by this enormous tragedy and offered the government's support in finding the murderers who did this, if at all possible. 'The situation is quite unimaginable', the prime minister said. 'Who could be so angry that this monstrous attack is their only solution?'

Among the victims are possibly Tak ambassador Qe ob Kom and his staff; the government has tried to reach them but so far they haven't given any indication of survival. The ambassador has been stationed in the GBR capital of Surina for less than a year, since our country opened diplomatic relations with the GBR last year.

The question is now how the GBR will respond to the attack. 'On this day in history, I wouldn't want to be on the wrong side of the Burovians', political analyst Put ob Hæep reacted. 'Luckily for Tak they are one of the nations with which our country managed to establish a friendly relationship.'

Airforce fleet to be modernised

MØG, 21-10-316 • The government will increase the budget for the army with 8.3% next year, defense minister Fæs ob Sin has announced. The financial boost was agreed upon so that the Tak airforce will be able to modernise and expand its fleet.

'The current fleet consists of a variety of old aircraft that we managed to collect in the last couple of years, some of them unclaimed Bowdani airforce material', the minister explained. 'It is time that some structure is applied in our air defense. We will negotiate with aircraft building companies abroad in order to find the best possible solution.'

MØG, 21-10-316 • Diplomatic relations will be established with all other former Bowdani countries, a spokeswoman of the ministry of foreign affairs confirmed today.

'We are currently negotiating with the Lectern of United Kencari People, the Republic of Flovaigne and the Coare Republic about full mutual ambassadorial presence; the ambassador of LUKP will however be accredited for the Kingdom of Bêltse, the Duchy of Gen and the state of Vaara', the spokeswoman said. She added that she hoped that the relations between our countries can be normalised as quickly as possible. She didn't want to react however to news about increasing ethnical tensions in Flovaigne and LUKP.

Foreign ministry warns for fake Tak passports

MØG, 24-10-316 • The ministry of foreign affairs has issued a memo informing foreign officials about the shape and features of the Tak passport, after it has emerged that criminals have been using Tak's uncertain international status to create fake Tak passports, some of which don't even look like the real one.

'It is unclear at this point what the purpose of these passports is', a spokesman revealed. 'Most likely the criminals sell the passports to people who want to disappear or change their identity for other reasons, and due to the fact that real Tak documents are still new, they may get away with it.'

Not in Tak though, as a man was arrested recently for trying to enter Tak with a fake passport. 'The passport looked very professional, but in no way like a standard Tak passport. The fake one was bright red, to start with, where the real ones are aquamarine. We're hoping that the man can lead us to the seller.'
