

Reg ak Møg

ƨEri Pə ak Tak • Vəs ak-teet, ŋGæva 13Ū | News from Tak • 5th edition, December 316 | Ad Rem 2A, TAK-A0635 Møg

Tak recognises Republic of the Western Shore

MØG, 11-11-316 • Tak has recognised the Republic of the Western Shore, the youngest new nation on the Smalik continent, that broke away from the Lectern of United Kencari Peoples two days ago. The governments of both nations agreed to exchange diplomatic representations soon.

Minister of foreign affairs Zoot ob Laar denied accusations made by LUKP officials that Tak had anything to do with the declaration of independence of the Western Shore, but expressed the hope that the LUKP will be able to offer a safe and stable government to all of its citizens.

'Caboteniasa should respect their Tak'

MØG, 17-11-316 • Minister of foreign affairs Zoot ob Laar called upon the government of Caboteniasa to respect the dignity of the Tak living in our northern neighbour and keep considering them as Caboteniasons with the same rights as any other subject of the United Kingdom. She made this official statement after rumours of an underground Tak separatist movement surfaced recently.

'The government of Tak would like to emphasise that we have no knowledge about let alone ties with such a movement', the minister said. 'Tak has always sought diplomatic relations with Caboteniasa, which I am sad to say are still pending. We are hoping that the government of Caboteniasa is willing to take this opportunity and make a long lasting friend out of the Tak'.

The minister didn't want to comment on the possibility that the weapons that were seized in Lp in April this year, were in fact intended to be sold to the Tak in Caboteniasa instead of being shipped to Bowdani, as has always been suspected.

Druids want Smalik Security Union

MØG, 22-11-316 • The Council of Chief Druids that took place between 4 and 21 November resulted in the formal reappointment of prime minister Mar ob Qaat, retroactively since the elections that took place earlier this year. The most important other decision that the Chief Druids presented to the government was their wish that Tak take the lead in the creation of a Smalik Security Union that should protect stable and peaceful nations on the continent against war and chaos originating from less fortunate countries.

It is rare that the Druids intervene in the international policies of the Tak, but the situation in the Lectern of United Kencari Peoples 'calls for drastic measures'. It is unknown if the Druids gave the government a list of countries that they consider suitable members of the security union. The union's main purpose should be a defensive one and to establish cooperation between the member states' armed forces. Further details were not made public so far.

Other subjects that were discussed included measures to prevent potential environmental damage that the current government's plans to improve the nation's public transport system might cause, the increase of foreign criminality in the country's western states, most likely due to the situation in the rest of former western Bowdani, and the situation regarding the ethnic Tak in our northern neighbour Caboteniasa.

The Council of Chief Druids convenes irregularly; this time they chose the large Paak Em it Møg (Central Park of Møg) for the gathering. Their presence attracted numerous curious spectators from outside Møg and the police had some trouble maintaining order. Most Tak deeply revere the Druids and seeing a lot of Chief Druids together is something not every Tak will be able to observe if they don't live in Møg; many took a holiday to travel to the capital.

B2 highway to connect Tak with Coare

MØG, 28-11-316 • Representatives of the ministries of transport and infrastructure of Tak and the Coare Republic signed an agreement to prolong the Tak highway B2 so that it will connect the Coare capital of Coarnigg to the city of Pæak; from Pæak the highway B2 already exists all the way to Bøek, where it connects to the B1 to Lp.

The plans still have to be approved by the countries' respective parliaments. The first elections for the parliament of Coare will take place on 10 and 17 December.

'Tak to take over 69.8% of Utanian trade Bowdani'

MØG, 02-12-316 • According to unconfirmed sources, the government of Tak is willing to take over 69.8% of the Utanian trade deal that the country used to have with Bowdani. Trade between the two nations collapsed after Bowdani became increasingly unstable until the country dissolved.

The rumours of Tak's offer emerged after Utania put all former Bowdani nations excluding Tak and Flovaigne on a 'Red List' earlier this week and urged all its citizens to leave these countries immediately. With Utania considering a large part of former Bowdani not safe enough anymore, Tak could take over the trade to those countries as well, whereas it is up to Utania to propose to Flovaigne to take over the remaining 30.2% of its former trade with Bowdani.

Not everyone is convinced that it would be good for Tak if Utania accepted this deal – if at all confirmed. It is probable that the Tak government is hoping to benefit from this deal and present our nation as an economic transit to the former western Bowdani nations; if these manage to make deals elsewhere, Tak will end up with a huge surplus.